WANTS DORA BACK.—Gen. Cassius
M. Clay, the venerable sage of White Hall, in Madison, who is now ninety-seven years old, has written to his former child-wife, Dora Richardson Brock, whose husband was killed by a train in Illinois several days ago, asking her to come back and remain with him the rest of his life. Gen. Clay realizes that he has only a short time to live, and he has called continually for his young wife, even since she got a divorce from him, and married Brock. Immediately after her marriage to Brock, Gen. Clay bought them a home in Woodford county and furnished it handsomely for them, even decorating the walls with the fine paintings he secured while he was in Russia as United States Minister to that country.

DROWNED HERSELF.—Miss Lillie Egles, of Lexington, who was visiting her mother in Montgomery county, drowned herself. She left the following note:
"DEAR MAMMA: In your name I write to you that you may know what has become of me. Ma, I could not get well, and I did not want to live. You need not grieve after me. The crawfish will eat me. This is all you will know of me."

WOMAN ROBBER.—Mrs F. F. Adams, Jr., of Milwaukee, reported Wednesday that she was robbed of $18,500 while on a passenger train from Chicago to Milwaukee. She claims to have been sandbagged by another woman while in the toilet room of the car. The female robber is supposed to have leaped from the train while it was running forty miles an hour.

When out cooling off these hot summer nights, stop in at Lavin & Murphy's, corner of Tenth and Pleasant, and get a cold bottle of Wiedeman.

BIG FIRE.—Fire at Paint Lick, Garrard county, at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning destroyed the bank, Odd Fellows' Hall, telephone exchange, a warehouse and several stores. The loss is more than $30,000.

FROM BOSTON.—The shameless paragrapher of the Boston Globe perpetrates this:

This is the open work season on shirtwaists.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST VAGRANTS.—City Judge Riley, of Lexington, had brought before him Monday fifteen negroes who would not work, and sent all of them to the city workhouse for sixty days.
The Judge has inaugurated a campaign of prosecution against worthless negroes who, although the farmers are offering high prices for labor, will not seek employment, but lie about the city in idleness. May the officials of Paris catch on.

Necessity.

Oh, they're buttercups out yonder An' daisies in the dew, An' they're violets a-hidin' Like two peckin' eyes o' blue, An' if 'twasn't for the earnin'
Of a livin' keeps me dead, I'd be smugglin' 'mongst the daisies An' the grasses happy-eyed.

If it wasn't for the earnin'
Of the livin' that we need I'd be pickin' blue-eyed violets An' sprays o' feather-weed, An' bindin' them an' daisies In a nosegay smelly-sweet, An' I'd feel the prairie grasses Like a carpet neath my feet.

If it wasn't for the earnin'
Of your livin', oh, you tyke!
I would take you to the meadows Where the violets are like Archin' skies o' early summer, Rainwashed skies o' turquoise blue, An' I'd raise you where the violets Are like the eyes o' you!

DECAY OF CONFUCIANISM.

As Sway Over the Minds of Literary Chinamen Not What It Was Twenty Years Ago.

Careful observers in China are noticing the gradual decay of Confucianism. Its sway over the minds of the Chinese literati is by no means what it was even as recently as 20 or 30 years ago, says the North China Herald. It is true that there is apparently no marked diminution in the number of ancestral halls, the existence of which all over the land serves as an indication of the vitality of the state religion; yet, nevertheless, the more the country is permeated with western knowledge, the more are the minds of the educated class becoming alienated from the teachings to which before unquestioning obedience was accorded.

The reason for this state of things is not difficult to comprehend. It is gradually dawning upon the educated young men of China that a knowledge of the Confucian classics is no longer what it was from a commercial point of view. And the comprehension of this fact is sufficient to account for the diminishing interest that is being taken in the acquisition of Confucian learning. It must also be admitted that, as the broader and deeper knowledge introduced and inculcated by western scholars is being assimilated, there is an ever-increasing realization of how inadequate Confucianism is, notwithstanding its merits, to meet the requirements of the present day.

MEN OF AFFAIRS.

Sir James Marwick retires from the town clerkship of Glasgow after a 30 years' service on a pension of $12,500 per year. His salary was $17,500, making the office he held the best paid municipal post in Great Britain.

Emperor William has been taken to task for asserting in a recent after-dinner speech that he is "one of the youngest sovereigns of Europe." In fact, the German emperor stands about midway between the venerable King Christian and the boyish king of Spain. The rulers of Bulgaria, Portugal, Russia, Italy, Serbia, Holland and Spain are all younger than Emperor William.

Senator F. Dumont Smith, of Kinsley, lectured on "Words" in Wichita, Kan., a few nights ago. He is for spelling reform, and in advocating it in his lecture said that he knew of only one argument in favor of the old way and that was given by an English bishop who declared that the present method of spelling helped the churches. According to the bishop: "By the time you can make a boy believe that 't-h-r-o-u-g-h' spells 'through,' that 't-h-o-u-g-h' spells 'though' and 't-o-u-g-h' spells 'tough' you can make him believe anything."

The upper circle of Cleveland were much exercised the other day on hearing that Gen. J. Warren Keifer, former speaker in the house of representatives had appeared at breakfast that morning in the Hollenden hotel dining-room wearing a dress suit. He was accompanied by Gen. Joe Wheeler and some other prominent citizens. A friend explained that the general had adopted full dress for all occasions and that he wears no other style of costume. The elite, however, offers the more charitable explanation that Gen. Keifer had not yet been to bed.

SLANDEROUS PROVERBS.

The Scotch say: "Honest men marry soon, wise men never."

The Arabian declares: "Words are women: deeds are men."

The French adage: "A man of straw is worth a woman of gold."

The Persian sage says that a woman's wisdom is under her heel.

In life they say: "The next best thing to no wife is a good wife."

The Persian asserts that women and dragons are best out of the world.

The German affirms that every daughter of Eve would rather be beautiful than good.

An old English saying: "If a man lose a woman and a farthing he will be sorry he lost the farthing."

The German: "There are only two good women in the world—one dead and the other can't be found."

The German also asserts that whenever there is mischief brewing a woman and a priest are at the bottom of it.

The Spanish rhyme has it: "Were a woman as little as she is good, a pea pod would make her a gown and a hood."

The Corsican says: "Just as a good and a bad horse both need the spur, a good and a bad woman both need the stick."

The Hindoo: "A man is not obeyed by his wife in his own house, nor does she consider him her husband unless he beats her." Another Hindoo proverb says: "Drive out a woman's nature with a pitchfork and it will return again and again."

POOR COWS EXPENSIVE.

Why Thousands of Dairy Animals in the United States Should Be Sold for Beef.

Some dairymen would be better off if they did not have so many cows as they own at present and some would be actually better off if they had none. This is a hard saying, but it is true. The sooner the poor cows are weeded out of the herd the better. It takes a fairly good cow to pay expenses. There are millions of cows in the United States that are not fairly good. This is proven by statistics regarding the average of milk and butter production. The average cow is not a money maker, and there are millions of cows poorer than the average cow. From the average cow down they should be sent to the shambles. The farmers of the United States would be ahead what they received from them as beef. This would be clear gain, and more, for it would be preventing annual losses that are now occurring with great regularity. The men that scoff at book farming, that will not read agricultural papers and that will not attend farmers' institutes are the fellows for the most part that are keeping these expensive poor cows. The men that are awake and that think are quitting that kind of business. Moreover, the men that are progressive are getting ahead of the men that refuse to think. They are going out among the slow men and are annually buying their best cows to put into their own herds. They are doing this at the expense of a few dollars per cow more than they would have to pay for a poor cow. They are doing the right thing, for if the other men refuse to be instructed they must necessarily suffer the loss of their best animals. A cow that will make a profit of $50 a year is certainly worth twice as much as the cow that will make only $25 profit in a year, yet the foolish man that sells the better cow will part with her for $35 when he would want $25 for a poor cow. Every farmer should investigate the matter and as quickly as possible get rid of his expensive poor cows.—Farmers' Review.

AN EXCELLENT FORK.

Designed for the Easy Handling of Cut or Shredded Fodder and All Sorts of Chaff.

A handy fork for handling shredded or cut fodder or chaff of all kinds is shown in the illustration. It is made of one-half-inch stuff for tines. The head is one-inch square.

A HANDY FORK.

stuff. The piece that goes under the tines to hold the end of handles is one-half by one inch. Bore one-half-inch holes through the head, and round off tines to fit, then nail crosspiece on under side of tines so there is four and one-half inches space between the two pieces. Then put the handle on over the head and under the crosspiece and nail it. Cut a notch (as in small cut) in end of handle where it goes under crosspiece. Handle is made of a narrow strip of board.—F. H. Peek, in Ohio Farmer.

Corn for Dairy Feeding.

An enthusiastic advocate of soiling says that the truth of the prediction made some years ago that corn will soon take the place of grass for dairy and cattle feeding is already realized by many farmers. With the progressive dairymen pasturing is considered out of date and a wasteful method. Hay is inferior to prepared cornstalks for feeding purposes, and now that we can supply perfect corn ensilage for feeding we have more particular need for the pastures. An acre of pasture will not supply much more than one-fifth of the food required to support a cow through the growing months. One acre of corn will give all the green food it needs from the first of July to the first of October. On the same piece of land corn raised for soiling will make four times as much green food for a cow as will grass.

Milk Substitutes for Calves.

The rearing of calves on various milk substitutes has been fairly tested at the Pennsylvania station. From the results the following conclusions seem warranted: There is little difficulty raising prime dairy calves without milk after they are two weeks old. The cost of raising calves on a milk substitute, up to the time they can be put upon a hay and grain ration, or when they are between three and four months of age, need not exceed ten dollars, exclusive of care. Calves from high-class, well-bred dairy stock, when raised in this way, are worth much more than they cost, and afford the only means by which a milk dairyman can raise his herd to a high standard of excellence.

Many cows are made cross and unruly by the men who have the care of them. Take almost any nervous, high-strung cow and place her under the care of ill-tempered, impatient men, and the result is not difficult to foresee.

CARRIED OUT HIS PLANS.

Last Request of a Dying Millionaire Obeyed by His Mourning Children.A millionaire had died. There had been great apparent grief among those who had been most substantially remembered. And some real-for-sure regret among those who had expected to, and hadn't got a dollar, relates the Baltimore American.The funeral was over. The millionaire's sons had gathered for conference. Among the pet plans of the old man's declining days was a magnificent palace, on whose style of construction he had disagreed with every other member of the family."You will remember," said the eldest son, choking back his emotion wonderfully well, "that it was the last request that we carry out every plan he had made regarding the new house."

"Yes," they groaned in chorus.

"Well, I have arranged that it be done."Thereupon he piled all the plans of his father's architect into a large wastebasket and bore them triumphantly out to the rubbish bin in the back alley."I may say truthfully that it is a pleasure to carry out the plans, even though we disagreed in their forming," replied the young man as he returned with the empty basket.

A MUCH-TRAVELED KING.

Edward VII. Has Visited Many Foreign Lands as Prince and Ruler.Alexander and Caesar, Hannibal and Peter the Great must be accounted mere stay-at-homes compared with Edward VII. Before he was of age as prince of Wales, besides visiting most of the European courts, he had passed across the Atlantic—no holiday affair in 1860—on his tour through Canada and his visit to the United States. He witnessed Niagara illuminated and he saw Blenheim carry a man pick-a-back across the falls. Side by side with President Buchanan he stood at the grave of Washington—the man who had wrested an empire from his great-grandfather, George III., says the London Outlook.Later, under the guidance of Dean Stanley, he saw the holy land. He has ascended the great pyramid. He has steamed up the Nile and traversed the Suez canal. He has threaded the Dardanelles with a sultan of Turkey and accompanied the remains of a czar from the Crimea to the Kremlin at Moscow. The glories of Athens and of its modern northern prototype are all familiar to him. From Colombo to Concomara, from Nepal to Newfoundland, this spacious yet daily narrowing globe of ours is to King Edward an open book.Ignorant Russian Peasants.
The Russian moujik, or peasant, while an honest and, in the main, good-humored fellow, is the most ignorant being on earth of those who claim a degree of civilization. His ignorance is exceeded only by his intense religious sentiment. He makes more pilgrimages to church and perpetrates more religious formalities than any race of men.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY.

Its Future Development Depends on the Equitable Solution of the Road Problem.The remarkable growth of the rural free mail delivery system, and the willingness of congress to appropriate money for extensions faster than the extensions can be made, have been surprising even to the most enthusiastic friends of the system. "Why, the thing is spreading like wildfire," remarked a gentleman who had been reading up on the subject. "At this rate rural free mail delivery will be universal in a few years." At first glance this view appears to be correct, but in fact such a view is merely superficial. It takes no great amount of investigation to convince one that the system must meet and overcome very great obstacles before it can even become general, to say nothing of being universal. So far the system has sailed on smooth and open seas with favorable winds. But now it is rapidly approaching a region of rocks and snags and storms.Dropping the maritime figure and coming back to terra firma, the great obstacle to the general spread of the rural free delivery system is the miserable roads of the country. So far the system has only been extended to communities blessed with good roads. Among the many communities demanding the introduction of the system the post office department has been able to select those which have good roads, either as a result of favorable natural condition or superior wealth. The less favored communities, which have been passed by, have consoled themselves with the thought that their turn would come soon. But when these disappointed communities—and their number is increasing very rapidly—find out that they are permanently barred from enjoying the benefits of free delivery on account of the condition of their roads, a cry of indignant opposition will be raised, and it will grow into an angry roar above which it is doubtful if the friends of free delivery can be heard. When this storm breaks the beneficiaries of the system will be found to be a small minority and the disappointed a large majority of the rural population. Suppose the minority stands on its dignity and says: "What are you going to do about it?" What's to prevent the disappointed majority from wiping out the whole system and thus restoring "equality before the law?" Or suppose the minority says: "Why don't you improve your roads, and thus secure the blessing of free mail delivery?" The majority can answer: "In improving our roads we have to overcome greater obstacles, and our means are less. Why not help us improve our roads through general taxation?" Such a demand as this is almost certain to result from the agitation for rural free delivery of the mails. And what is there unreasonable or unjust about such a demand? The general improvement of the roads of the country is a work too stupendous to be left entirely to the small municipalities. Besides, it is not more deserving of national aid than the building of railroads and canals and the improvement of rivers and harbors?A proper distribution of the expenses of general road improvement among the nation, the states and the local communities appears to be the only practical solution of the road problem, and the road problem must be solved if rural free mail delivery is to be made general.

BRACING FENCE POSTS.

A Homemade Implement Which Does the Work as Well as Those Sold in Shops.Take a 2-inch plank 4 feet long, 6 inches wide, rip it diagonally into two pieces, 2x2 inches at one end, 2x4 inches at the other. But the 4-inch ends together and connect them with a pair of heavy strap hinges.Cut another piece 4 feet long for a lever and bolt it on as shown in cut.
The upper end of the machine should have a ferrule and sharpened spike, to prevent splitting and slipping. The bottom end will need a foot to prevent sinking in the ground.To operate, place against leaning post (b), and press down on lever.

Two bites are often necessary if the post leans badly. When the post is plumb, as at (a), the machine will hold it in place for tamping.—S. B.
Lawrence, in Farm and Home.

The Best Farmer Defined.

The best farmer is not always the one who derives the most profit from a farm. Happening to grow certain crops that failed to grow elsewhere, or a chance rise in the price of some product, may result favorably to anyone who is so situated as to take advantage of opportunities. A good farmer keeps his house and grounds in perfect order, weeds are not allowed to his farm, he uses the best broods of animals and the most productive varieties of plants, while the farm is not allowed to depreciate in fertility.ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

LEVELER AND SMOOTHER.

How to Construct a Straightener and Lever Which Are Sure to Do Good Work.For the many farmers who do not have rollers, here is an implement that does the work just as well. On cloddy land it is better as it crushes; for land with small, loose stones it is

HOMEMADE LEVELER.

just the thing to make the ground smooth for the reaper or mower. It levels up uneven places without so much packing and can be used on any soil.It is made of planks about 12 inches wide. If hardwood is used 1 1/2 inch planks are desirable, but if hemlock two-inch thick is best. It should be three planks wide and eight or nine feet long. The front plank should be turned slightly up and secured by 2x6-inch joists nailed or bolted across, as illustrated. It can be drawn by chain or tongue as preferred. This plank can be loaded with the larger stones as it is drawn over the field and emptied at fence turn. The material need not cost over $1.50 for the outfit.—

CHANGE BADLY NEEDED.

Our Road System, as Now in Vogue in Most States, Is the Worst Kind of Failure.With the ground full of water when it froze up and with a fairly open winter and a liberal amount of rain during the latter part, we have a new emphasis placed upon the good roads problem in some sections having newly established free delivery mail routes. When the patrons are shut in for three or four days at a time without their mail, the rosate hue of the new system begins to fade away. The establishment of centralized school systems will present still another argument for road improvement. In many sections of the prairie the pavement of roads with stone or even gravel is very expensive owing to a lack of such materials in those localities. Very great improvement may, however, be made with the materials at hand. Dirt roads can be made that will be passable under practically all kinds of weather and that, during the greater part of the year, will be very good roads. One of the most universal failings of our roads is lack of proper under-drainage. This is the first essential of good road, regardless of the kind of material used for the surface. Stone or any other kind of paving will not keep in shape on top of a soft, spongy, water-soaked foundation. With a porous reservoir beneath the roadbed, into which the water taken up thereby can percolate, the old mudhole without a bottom will be a thing of the past. Perhaps the next most important step in the securing of better roads is a provision whereby they will have constant attention and repairs will be made promptly before the disorder becomes extensive. This will involve the abolishment of the old-fashioned system whereby the road work is done by the farmers when they have nothing else to do, and will involve also the payment of the road taxes in cash and the employment of a competent man by the year, who will devote his whole time to the work, and with a crew of men constantly at work, will repair defects whenever and wherever they occur, and such improvements as are made will be made at the time when the work can be done the most economically and the best results be obtained, rather than when it suits the convenience of those performing the work.
This change of system has been tried in a number of places in different states and is found entirely satisfactory and to give much better results than the old method. One of the chief stumbling blocks in the way of inaugurating this new system is the objection on the part of the farmers to paying their road taxes in cash, but when they once try it they prefer it to the old way. It is the universal experience that the same expenditure of money gives a far better road service under this system. Those who have the time and would prefer to work out their taxes can offset the cash payment by hiring out to the road engineer for such time as they may choose. Few realize how much more effective road work is when done at the right time.
—Prairie Farmer.

Dynamite in Tree Planting.

When transplanting young trees success is half insured if the ground is perfectly prepared in advance. We find that thorough subsoiling is a sure way of obtaining success. This can be best accomplished by making a hole, with a long crow-bar, in the ground where the tree is to stand.
Let it be three or four feet deep.
Place one-fifth of a stick of dynamite deep down in the hole and fire it off.
After the firing you will find the loosened up quite deep, making it easier for the roots of the tree to penetrate into the soil.—L. O. Folio, in Farmers' Voice.

RUNAWAYS.—Carl Weathers, son of the late J. W. On the same day, a young boy was returning from the depot with the buggy of Mr. Claude Redmon, who had just left with his mother for Pittsburg, when the horse ran off breaking the buggy to pieces and ruining the horse. The boy was not hurt.

A Fatal Accident.

Mrs. William Mitchell and Miss Imogene Redmon, of this city, have been the guests of Mrs. H. A. Morrison, (Mrs. Mitchell's granddaughter) at Pittsburg, for several weeks. On Monday, the party accepted an invitation to go through the mammoth plant of the H. J. Heitz's pickle factory. While the party, twenty-three in number, were going up in the elevator the cable broke as they reached the fifth story, and they fell with a crash to the cellar.

Mrs. Mitchell, aged about 63 years, was fatally hurt, and died from her injuries Wednesday. Mr. Wm. Mitchell and her only child, Mrs. Lawrence Vanhook, who left for Pittsburg, Tuesday, returned with the remains yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be held this (Friday) morning at 9 o'clock, at the family residence in East Paris, by Dr. E. H. Rutherford, and remains interred in the Paris cemetery. She was a consistent member of the Second Presbyterian church and a most excellent lad.

Miss Redmon's injuries are thought not to be fatal, she having one limb broken between the knee and ankle, an ankle sprained and spine injured. She is now resting comfortably in the West Pennsylvania Hospital at Pittsburg. Her mother and brother Mr. Claude Redmon, of this city, left Wednesday afternoon to be with her.

Mrs. Morrison, who was formerly Miss Frankie Vanhook, of near Paris, had a limb broken, and received other bruises, but is not considered seriously hurt.

The wife of Eld. E. W. Thornton, a Christian minister formerly of Lexington, is among those seriously hurt.

Nine of the twenty-three passengers on the elevator were hurt.

FORESTS AND FRESHETS.

Floods Were as Great Before Trees Were Cut Down as They Have Been Since.

After all, the deforesting of the country is not responsible for the floods. There were more forests half a century ago along the watersheds of some of the tributaries of the upper Mississippi than there are now notwithstanding the tree planting which the late J. Sterling Morton started on the Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa plains, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. A very high reach of water was scored in the Mississippi at St. Louis in 1811 and 1826. Probably, although this is not certain, the river was higher at this point in those years than it will be in 1903. In 1783 the rivers of the west were on such a boom that that date is called the "year of the great waters." There is not much satisfaction for the residents along the Missouri and the upper Mississippi to know that these rivers more than once in the past reached a higher stage than they are likely to closely approach this year. But this fact tells us that the persons who have been removing the forests are not solely responsible for the freshets. These occurred before the axman made his appearance, although the extension of the area of settlement makes the floods of the present day vastly more destructive than were those of 40 or 50 years ago. The necessity for the invention of some means whereby the surplus waters of the spring and early summer months can be stored so as to prevent destruction then and to be used later on in the season is more urgent than it ever was in the past.

THE POPE'S GODCHILDREN.

Many Added to the Long List on His Ninety-Third Anniversary March 3 Last.

Leo XIII. is, as everyone knows, the godfather of young King Alfonso of Spain. But the latter is by no means the only godchild of the holy father, who announced his intention of acting as sponsor to every child born in Rome on March 3 last, which was the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the papacy, says a London paper. The average number of births per day in Rome does not exceed 35. But for some extraordinary reason there were no less than 93 births recorded on March 3, 93 being curiously enough the number of years which have elapsed since Leo XIII.'s own birth. A most searching inquiry was instituted in order to ascertain whether there had really been as many as 93 births in Rome on the day in question. But the investigation established the fact beyond a doubt that the figures were correct and authentic, and consequently the pope has 93 new godchildren, among them a set of triplets, two boys and a girl, who have received the names of Romulus, Remus and Roma, and each of these 93 children have received from him a complete outfit and a sum of 100 lire.

LONGEVITY OF QUAKERS.

Estimated Duration of the Average Friend's Life Given as Fifty-Eight Years.

The longevity of Quakers was discussed by a group of Philadelphians the other day, says the Philadelphia Record. A physician of Quaker descent said: "It is undoubtedly true that Friends are among the longest lived persons in the world. Statistics, laboriously and accurately collected, prove this clearly. The statistics were compiled here in Philadelphia in 1860. They showed the duration of the average Friend's life to be 58 years. There were living at that time in this city 30 Friends who were over 88 years old, and there were 50 other Friends whose years aggregated 5,258. These persons, that is to say, were, on the average, 85 years old. Marked longevity among our people proves how wholesome and beneficial our rules of living are. The abstemiousness, the early hours, the avoidance of worldly excitement—these were the things that multiplied so remarkably our forefathers' years."

WOMEN WHO WEAR TROUSERS.

Squad of Feminine Gardeners in Kew Gardens Work in Bifurcated Garments.

At Kew gardens, in London, a small, intelligent, capable and scientific squad of practical women gardeners is employed. They labor in the potting sheds wield the pruning shears, study fertilizers and wear trousers. In summer their nether bifurcated garments are of dark blue linen or brown, as the wearer prefers. They have adopted long breeches, strapped close to the leg below the knees and about the ankles to permit unimpeded stepping in and out among close-set plants. A blue smocked frock loosely gathered in by a broad belt at the waist forms the remainder of their very sensible uniform. The public when visiting the famous gardens easily catches a glimpse of them.

Interesting Statistics.

The death rate of the globe is estimated at 63 a minute, 97,920 a day, or 35,740,800 a year. The birth rate is 70 a minute, 100,800 a day, or 36,972,000 a year, reckoning the year to be 365 days in length.

Belgian Socialists.

In many respects, and especially because of the people's palaces in which they carry on all kinds of co-operative industry, the Belgian socialist party is the most interesting in Europe.

FACTS ABOUT MAN'S GROWTH.

Stature Found to Increase Until the Age of Fifty Years Has Been Attained.

"The growth of mankind," said a scientist, "is an interesting study. Recent statistics have proved that men's stature increases up to the age of 50 years. This is a refutation of the former belief, according to which men stopped growing at 22 or 23."

"Boys and girls seesaw oddly in the rapidity of their growth. The fastest growth experienced in life comes between the ages of 1 and 5. Boys and girls grow about equally here. From 5 to 10 the boys outstrip the girls, but from 10 to 15 the girls outstrip the boys. At 11 and 14 the girls are the boys' superiors in height, and from 10 to 15 they are the boys' superiors in weight."

"But between 16 and 20 the boys forge ahead, taking at that stage a lead which they never again relinquish. The boys cease their perceptible growth at 23; the girls cease theirs at 20. From 23 onward to 50 men, however, continue to grow (no observations have been made on women), though this growth is, of course, slight. They also increase slowly in weight, but from 30 to 60 their weight increases very rapidly."

"Male strength increases most markedly from the age of 12 to that of 19, from 19 to 30 it increases more slowly. From 30 onward it begins, very slowly, to decline."

"Female strength increases most rapidly from 9 to 19; then, slowly, to 30; and after 30 the decline begins."

WANDERING NIGHT HERONS.

An Interesting Experiment with the Birds by the Smithsonian Institution.

Eight hundred night herons are wandering free about the United States, each wearing on one leg an aluminum hand-inscribed "Smithsonian Institution" and a number. If any person shoots one of these birds he should write to Paul Bartsch, biologist of the Smithsonian, telling him where it was and how large was the bird. The night heron is one of the most beautiful of the aquatic birds of America, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, but scientists know less about it than they are satisfied with.

Last year Mr. Bartsch discovered several of these birds on the Potomac, in the District of Columbia. Recently he visited the place with several assistants in the night, and the 800 aluminum bands were fastened to the legs of as many young herons. Scientists are anxious to know how long the night heron lives, where it spends the winters and how much of the country it covers in its wanderings. It is believed that by the time a few of the numbered aluminum bands have been reported some of these facts will have been established to the satisfaction of the ornithologists.

BRITAIN'S POSTAL BANKS.

Their Assets Are Less Than Their Deposits, But No Uneasiness Is Felt.

The fact is odd, says the New York World. The post office savings banks of Great Britain are technically insolvent. Their deposits at the end of the year were $700,000,000, their assets only about $670,000,000. Nobody worries about a little thing like that; the government is responsible. Of course the discrepancy rose from the high prices the department was forced to pay for national bonds before the Boer war. The lowering of the rate of interest allowed is an obvious cure. The postal banks were authorized in 1881 and nearly $10,000,000 was deposited the first year. Some later developments are curious. By the "slip" system a sum as small as two cents can be deposited. Deposits can be withdrawn by telegraph. School savings banks are recognized, but are not very successful, owing to the superior attractions of sweets as a medium of investment. A feature of the postal banks is that, through their agency, depositors can buy small fractional portions of government bonds.

EDWARD'S PRIVATE BAND.

Dissolution of the Historic Institution Through the Playing of Ragtime.

King Edward has given orders for the disbandment of his private band, one of the ancient features of his court. In its present form it was established by Charles II., and some authorities assert that a "state" band existed in the days of Queen Elizabeth. It is composed of 34 musicians, under the direction of Sir Walter Parratt, "master of the music." Its members are the best that can be secured in England, and this is the real cause of its dissolution. Unlike his mother, King Edward does not care much for state concerts by his own musicians, and since his accession the duties of the band have been confined chiefly to the playing of light music, including ragtime, during royal dinners. This they regard as undignified, and the king regards as extravagant. The same music can be played as well by fewer and less notable musicians. Therefore another ancient institution has been done away with.

Fortune from Celery.

There is a merchant in New York who has made a fortune by the sale of celery. For 20 years he has handled nothing else. In season he buys it in carload lots. Out of season he keeps large quantities frozen in ice, for which he obtains big prices. The celery comes out as brittle as glass.

A WARLIKE ARRAY.

Austrian army suicides are equal to those of any three other European armies put together.

Austrian soldiers will, under the new penal code, be able to avail themselves of counsel, and instead of the secret trial in camera court-martials will be open to the public.

In the test of the McClean guns at Cleveland the one-pounder machine cannon showed a speed of more than 300 shots per minute. The test of the infantry machine gun showed a speed of 800 shots per minute.

Pension Commissioner Ware's sympathy has been aroused once more, this time by the pension application of a battle-scarred veteran who tells a story of domestic infelicity, concluding in this fashion: "I got blood poison by being hit with a hens egg when I came back from the front. The egg was not good when you send my pension I want the Deed made so my wife can't get none of it—she throve the egg. She was a rebel."

Gabriel Dumont, who was Louis Riel's right-hand man in the rebellion in northwest Canada eighteen years ago, has returned to the territory from this country, where he has been living since his chief was executed after the suppression of the trouble. Dumont in his younger days bore a great reputation as a scout and hunter and many romantic stories are told of his feats and adventure in the backwoods. He was outlawed for a long time after the Riel rebellion. He proved himself, beyond his experienced knowledge of the woods and streams, a military strategist of great talent and he gave the dominion forces much trouble in the campaign of 1885.

AMONG THE MEXICANS.

Ladies do not attend funerals. Children kiss the hands of their parents.

The hostess is served first at a Mexican table.

The bridegroom purchases the bride's trousseau.

Female friends kiss on both cheeks when greeting or taking leave.

Gentlemen speak first when passing lady acquaintances on the street.

When a Mexican speaks to you of his home he refers to it as "your house."

The sofa is the seat of honor, and a guest waits to be invited to occupy it.

Men and women in the same social circle call each other by their first names.

When friends pass each other on the street without stopping they say adios (good-by).

When you move into a new locality it is your duty to make the first neighborhood calls.

Cards are sent to friends upon the anniversary of their saint's day and upon New Year's day.

Young ladies never receive calls from young men and are not escorted to entertainments by them.

Even the younger children of the family are dressed in mourning upon the death of a relative.

Daily inquiry is made for a sick friend, and cards are left or the name written in a book with the porter.

Dinner calls are not customary, but upon rising from the table the guest thanks his host for the entertainment.

After a dance the gentleman returns his partner to her seat beside her parents or chaperon and at once leaves her side.—Modern Mexico.

AN EFFECTIVE HOTBED.

Valuable Suggestions for Farmers Who Are Thinking of Giving Gardening a Fair Trial.

The location for a good hotbed needs to be chosen with some care; it should be sheltered by trees or by a good, broad fence on the north side. This fence should be six and one half feet high, and is usually built leaning back about six inches from perpendicular at the top so that mats, sashes or shutters leaned up against the fence will not so readily be blown down by the wind. The land should slope a little to the south or southeast, and the beds should be either level or of even grade from end to end in order to run the planks straight from one end to the other. The bed should face southeast, south or southwest, according to the lay of the land.

The best material for heat is fresh horse manure from a stable where not less than eight horses are kept, well fed with grain. The manure should be piled up near the bed until enough is ready. It will need a cord of manure for each ten or 15 sashes. If not needed immediately, it should be pitched over frequently, to prevent burning. When ready the manure should be forked into the bed, not dumped, and well trodden down as it is placed in the pit, until the required amount is in place. Then it should be immediately covered with the loam and the sashes placed on the frame, and over them the mats, if the weather is cold.

In about two days after being made up the bed will attain its greatest degree of heat if everything works well, perhaps 90 to 115 degrees. After this, the heat will gradually decline, and after four weeks will usually be about 50 to 60 degrees. The deeper the manure is packed in the bed the higher will be the heat and the longer it will be retained. When beds are started in January and February, it is needful to make them considerably deeper than in March and April. Indeed, after April 15 heat is hardly needed at all except for cucumbers.

The frames for hotbeds are usually put in order in the fall before the ground freezes, and are covered with leaves or other litter deeply enough to prevent freezing. Whenever they are wanted the pit is dug out in sections about six feet at a time, throwing back the surface loam to the depth of six inches upon the section already filled with manure, and then carting away whatever more is needed in order to make the pit of the required depth.

The advantages in building beds in this manner over the method of building them above ground are that the manure in a pit will retain its heat better than when exposed to the wind, and the bed will need far less watering. Hotbeds thus constructed are used for forcing winter crops of lettuce and radishes, and for starting seeds of tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, peppers, cucumbers and onions for transplanting to the open field in April and May. In the accompanying illustration a represents the sash, b the plank, c loam, d manure, e mats, and g the fence at the back.—Orange Judd Farmer.
